SUMMARY

Buyanki Ammunition Depot Railroad Station is located approximately 35 kilometers (km) west of Arsenyev on the north side of the Manzovka-Arsenyev rail line (Figure 1).

Other military installations in the vicinity include Buyanki Chemical Service Depot (BE [REDACTED]) located 3.5 km southeast and Rettikhovka Ordnance Depot [REDACTED] which is located 9 km southwest.

This installation is double secured, covers approximately 405 acres, and consists of a storage area surrounded by a firebreak and a support area located .5 km south. The storage area includes 12 revetted storage buildings, 10 small revetted buildings, 3 bunkers, and 7 support buildings. The support area contains an administration building, 3 barracks, 17 support buildings, a guard house, a guard post, and a motor pool containing 2 vehicle maintenance buildings and a support building (Figures 2 and 3).

The area was covered by [REDACTED] KEYHOLE missions between [REDACTED]. Comparative analysis revealed a general level of light track activity with the exception of [REDACTED] when photography revealed moderate to heavy track activity in the depot support area. One support building was added to the storage area at the end of [REDACTED]. No other significant changes have been noted since [REDACTED].
